PVSSC DOCK-DIVING FUN DAY!

August 11th was a wonderful day - sunny, warm (but not hot) and windless. About twenty PVSSC'ers and guests – and dogs of course – gathered at beautiful Walnut Hill Farm in Reva, Virginia for PVSSC's initiation into the fun sport of Dock-Diving! The Standard Schnauzers were joined by a Chesapeake Bay Retriever and a Great Pyrenees owned by members.

For the dogs, it was a gentle introduction – our instructor Pauline was in the pool to ensure a calm entry into the water and to give support when needed. All dogs wore life vests and (after some initial surprise at their situation) soon discovered that they could both float and swim! Most dogs stuck with the more gentle ramp entry, but a few tried the "leap of faith!" from the platform.

Everyone enjoyed a picnic lunch under the tents while we watched the fun!

Lisa Klepp (Lisa Renee Visions Photography) recorded the action and over 250 photos from the day can be viewed on her website at:
